PLOW BOLTS

Plow bolts are typically used to attach the plow share (blade) to the frog (frame) and allow earth to pass over their heads without obstruction to the moldboard. They are also used to fasten the blade to bulldozers and motor graders. Plow bolts have a small round countersunk head and a square neck—the width of the square (measured across the flats) is the same size as the nominal diameter of the bolt. The top of the head can be flat (for plows) or dome (convex) shaped (for dozers/ graders); the conical (tapered) bearing surface of a plow bolt is 80°.

No. 3 Plow Bolts are a domed countersunk head with a square neck to prevent rotation. No. 7 Plow Bolts are a little more uncommon, but have a flat, countersunk head with a single “tooth” to prevent rotation.

The most common grades, materials and finishes are as follows: Grade 5, steel, zinc plated, and Grade 8, steel, yellow zinc plated.
